

KANSAS JUNIOR LIVESTOCK SHOW

LEAD CHALLENGE

Developing Dynamic Leaders in Kansas Agriculture

2022 LEAD Challenge Participant Guide

The Kansas Junior Livestock Show LEAD Challenge is an education, advocacy, and leadership event that provides youth an opportunity to learn about current industry, production, and animal care issues, and then apply those learnings in a multi-event competition. Competition in the LEAD Challenge encourages KJLS exhibitors to develop not only the ability to show livestock, but also a well-rounded knowledge of animal agriculture and important advocacy skills. The purpose of the LEAD Challenge participant guide is to provide rules and study materials for each component of the challenge. The challenge consists of four main components: Listen & Learn sessions, livestock showmanship, skill stations, and a career development activity.

Age Divisions

There are three age divisions for the LEAD Challenge: junior (ages 7-9), intermediate (ages 10-13), and senior (14-18). Age is based on the contestant's age as of January 1, 2022.

Listen & Learn

Listen & Learn consists of three sessions of educational workshops. Each 45-minute session will be held virtually in the weeks leading up to the show weekend and links to each Zoom session can be found at www.kjls.net/lead-challenge. For those unable to watch each session live, the sessions will be recorded and posted on the website within 24 hours. A short survey will follow each session for contestants to earn attendance points. This year, we will have sessions on the following topics:

- Ag Advocacy in the 24/7 News Cycle – Brityne Rucker
- Mental Health Issues in Agriculture – Kelsey Olson
- Being Prepared & How to React to Livestock Emergencies – Dr. Sara McReynolds

Livestock Showmanship

Livestock showmanship is considered the in-the-ring component of the challenge. Showmanship allows contestants to receive points for demonstrating proper livestock handling techniques. Points will be awarded for participating in any of the show's regular showmanship classes. There is no special or separate class you need to participate in for the LEAD Challenge.

Skill Stations

Skill stations give contestants the opportunity to demonstrate and apply key learnings about animal production, livestock management, and life skills. Each age division will participate in a virtual presentation station prior to the show weekend as well as five questions stations in-person during the show weekend. Juniors will answer four questions per station, intermediates will answer eight questions per station, and seniors will answer ten questions per station. The question stations will be open for a set time each day so that contestants can complete the stations as their show schedules allow.

Virtual Presentation Station

The presentation station will be completed remotely to accommodate busy school and activity schedules. All age divisions are asked to give a speech over Zoom on September 20 or 21 between 3:30-7:30 p.m. Please sign up for a time slot at www.kjls.net/lead-challenge.

Juniors will give a one- to three-minute prepared speech via Zoom about a mentor they have in the livestock industry and what they have learned from this person to be successful showing livestock. Each speech will be recorded and judged based on content and presentation. No questions will be asked after the conclusion of the participant's speech. No outside resources are allowed other than a 3" x 5" notecard.

Intermediates will give a one- to three-minute prepared speech via Zoom about what sustainability means in the agriculture industry. Each speech will be recorded and judged based on content and presentation. No questions will be asked after the conclusion of the participant's speech. No outside resources are allowed other than a 3" x 5" notecard.

Seniors will give a three- to five-minute extemporaneous speech via Zoom. Topics will fall under the categories of current issues in animal agriculture, ag literacy and advocacy, and ag marketing and international agriculture. Seniors will virtually draw one topic from each category then select a single topic to speak on. Seniors will have 30 minutes on camera in a breakout room to develop their speech then will be moved to an individual breakout room to give their speech. Each speech will be recorded and judged based on content and presentation. No questions will be asked after the conclusion of the participant's speech. Seniors may use outside sources to develop their speech but will only be allowed a 3" x 5" notecard when being recorded.

Show Preparation Station

Contestants will be asked a variety of questions pertaining to the rules and procedures of the Kansas Junior Livestock Show as well as show equipment identification and ethically fitting livestock.

Daily Care Station

Contestants will answer questions about nutrition, quality assurance, feed identification, and equipment identification.

Reproduction Station

Contestants will demonstrate their knowledge of the livestock reproductive tract, breeding equipment identification, gestation periods, EPDs, and reproductive hormones.

Retail Meat Station

Contestants will be tasked with identifying various cuts of beef, pork, lamb, and goat meat as well as asked questions about food safety handling procedures and slaughtering process terminology.

Current Industry Challenges Station

Contestants will be asked questions about current challenges the agriculture industry is facing including international trade, food labeling, careers in agriculture, and consumer education.

Career Development

This year's career development activity will be a mock job interview and contestants will be asked questions about their skills, extracurricular activities, and any work and/or leadership experience. Interviews will be done in-person on Saturday, October 1, from 7:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Contestants will be asked to sign up for an interview time online at www.kjls.net/lead-challenge. We understand that the livestock shows can run ahead or behind schedule, so time slots are flexible. Juniors will interview for five minutes. Intermediates will interview for seven minutes. Seniors will interview for ten minutes.

LEAD Challenge Scoring

There are 150 points available for each age division. Contestants will be awarded points in each category as follows:

1. Listen & Learn
 - a. 5 points per session for participation (maximum of 15 points total)
2. Showmanship
 - a. 5 points for participation*
3. Skills Stations
 - a. Maximum of 30 points for the virtual presentation "station"
 - b. Maximum of 10 points per question station (maximum of 50 points total)
4. Career Development
 - a. Maximum of 40 points for the interview

If an exhibitor is disqualified in one species for a KJLS rule violation, that exhibitor will receive an automatic NO SCORE for the showmanship portion of the LEAD Challenge (even if the exhibitor is showing other species and is not disqualified in those species).*

Ties will be broken using contestants' presentation station scores then career development scores, if needed.*

Attire

We understand that contestants have busy schedules while competing in the LEAD Challenge. The only requirement is that contestants wear show attire from the waist up during their recorded prepared speech and the in-person interview competition (button-down shirt, nice blouse, blazer, cardigan, etc.).
