

2023 Kansas Junior Livestock Shows Media Internships

Sept. 28th-October 1st, 2023 Hutchinson, KS

Join us for the first ever Kansas Junior Livestock Show Media Internship program. You will gain experience in a real world setting and have fun at the same time. We will choose up to four interns who will create KJLS social media, take candid photos and other special projects as needed during KJLS weekend.

- Gain experience in a real setting
- Learn from experienced professionals
- Build your portfolio and resume
- Have a fun learning weekend

When is the event?? Interns will arrive on Thursday evening September 29th, for training and preparation ahead of the show, and stay throughout the weekend until the shows are complete.

Who can apply?? College students or older with experience in writing, photography and design. Applicants should have their own cameras and laptops.

What will the interns be doing?? Interns will provide social media coverage of the KJLS weekend livestock exhibitors and shows.

Including:

- Take backdrop photos of youth who win breed champions
- Create graphics and post to social media to announce winners and thank sponsors throughout the show.

Megan Hobbs, will provide training, outline the weekend's projects and serve as their guide for the weekend. Interns will be provided with meals and hotel room during the Kansas Junior Livestock Show.
